

Lock with different keys

Reference : 18680

Description :

When purchasing a workstation, a display cabinet or a storage unit, the option of choosing a lock with different keys is essential in managing security and access. A lock with different keys means that each lock has a unique key that cannot open other locks, even if they are the same model. This ensures that only one person or a small group of people with the corresponding key can access the secure content.

Benefits :

- Only valid for a product to be assembled in our factory
- A practical and secure solution for everyone
- Facilitates access management while preserving confidentiality
